

Dover whips Phila 28-7

TORNADOES HAD LEGITIMATE CLAIM TO "NO. 1" IN LOCKER ROOM AFTER THE GAME

(Photo by Bob Lauriha)

Undefeated, they are No. 1 in both Cardinal Conference and their computer playoff region

Sideline highlights of the 75th classic

Armstrong scholarship fund announced

By JOLENE LIMBACHER

The annual Dover-New Philadelphia football game not only spotlights on-the-field stars, but those who have worked long hours behind the scenes to make the overall rivalry a success.

There are a number of highlights and special happenings that set the game apart from all the rest.

During pre-game ceremonies, Dover Board of Education president Isabel Moore announced the establishment of a Tom Armstrong Sr. Memorial Scholarship Award in honor of the former longtime Dover High teacher and football coach who died last Aug. 10.

Mrs. Moore shared her thoughts of Armstrong who was an inspiration to the hundreds of students who knew, admired and loved him.

A plaque honoring Armstrong will be placed in the high school, according to Jennifer Fox, student council president, who accepted the plaque from Edward Hamsher, superintendent.

Although the award's criteria has not yet been established, a committee has been formed to set the guidelines.

Crater Stadium's field was dressed-up, sporting a bright look for the traditional football battle. The star-studded end zones boasted DHS and NPHS lettering. For the diamond jubilee game, a large number "75" centered the field. Around the numbers were the words, "Years of Football."

As the Dover football team announced before the game, more than 1100 red and white helium-filled balloons drifted into space after being uncovered in a large wagon. The Tornado Club was responsible for the spirit inducer.

The club also purchased new jerseys for members of the squad. Each jersey had the player's name on the back, in addition to Tornado and 75th anniversary patches on the respective sleeves. Players were given the shirts as keepsakes.

The 75th anniversary souvenir program featured color pictures of seniors and the head coaches from each school.

New Philadelphia High won the spirit ribbon contest, beating Dover High with a total figure of $1648 collected. Dover students contributed $751 toward their spirit ribbon cause.

Part of the proceeds from the NPHS contest go toward cash prizes given for various activities and events held during the week in conjunction with the game. The remainder is used by the student council throughout the year for student and teacher projects.

The Quaker freshman class received $50 for having the longest spirit ribbon. Three students from each of the top four grades are selected at random and awarded cash prizes.

Cash prizes also went to winners in the float competition, held Thursday night at the New Philadelphia community pep rally.

See HIGHLIGHTS... A-3

Tornadoes go 10-0 for season

By REA TAICLET
Sports Editor

Dover has defied the odds.

Shaking off a slow start that saw New Philadelphia run at will without scoring, the Tornadoes came on with a super mixture of running and passing to defeat the Quakers 28-7 in Crater Stadium Friday night, finishing unbeaten in 10 games and winning the Cardinal Conference championship.

A crowd estimated at over 9000 watched quarterback Jamie DeVore earn the Most Valuable Player honors by spearheading the Tornadoes to three second-half touchdowns while the defense held the visiting Quakers scoreless until the final 7 seconds of the game.

Inside

TWO MEMBERS of the Dover Tornadoes joined the "1000 Club" during Friday night's game with New Philadelphia — James Black in rushing and Robbie Woods in receiving. — Page C-1

DOVER'S MVP Jamie DeVore said it was by far the best performance of his high school career. — Page C-1

TURNOVERS haunted the New Philadelphia Quakers' valiant bid to pin the first loss of the season on Dover as they fumbled three times deep in Tornado territory. — Page C-1

COMPLETE team and individual statistics from last night's 75th meeting between Dover and New Philadelphia are on Page C-3.

DWIGHT HUDSON, Ohio State University Buckeyes drum major, confirmed his reputation as the "superstar of the twirling world" during a halftime performance. — Page B-1

A PICTURE page on sideline highlights during last night's game is on Page C-4.

Game ball intercepted

Dover police today issued a warning to the New Philadelphia resident who stole the Tornado-Quaker game football Friday night — return it by Tuesday or charges will be filed.

Ptl. Robert Flanagan said the football was snatched from the hands of a youngster who was taking it to the Crater Stadium pressbox following the game. It was to be given away in a drawing held by the Dover Tornado Club.

Flanagan said he was unable to get through the crowd to nab the culprit. "I can identify him and I will file charges if it isn't returned by Tuesday," Flanagan said.

Peeping room only

Nine-year-old Karla Hendershot of Dover found only "peeping room" during last night's football game in Crater Stadium between Dover and New

Philadelphia. More than 9000 fans jammed into the stadium to see the 75th football classic. (Photo by Bob Lauriha)

From A-1 . . .

Sideline highlights

Winners announced at the school's pep rally Friday afternoon were:

Best decorated for use of color — Junior class with "Quakers are Grreat" featuring Tony the Tiger.

Greatest crowd appeal — Sophomore class with "The Thrill of Victory and the Agony of Defeat."

Special effects — Freshman class with "Th-th-That's All Dover" with Porky the Pig and Looney Tunes' characters.

characters.

Developed theme — Senior class with "Phila's Dragon's Got Dover Draggin."

Judge's award — French Club mini-float with "Cream 'Em" which featured a giant cream puff.

A total of $750 was awarded to the winning floats.

***

Ninety-eight of New Philadelphia

High's 240-member Red and Black Pack used expert timing to effectively relay messages via a "Block Q" (card section). Messages used were "Go," "Q," "NP," "Hi" and "No. 1." The "Block Q" will be featured at all of the Quaker home basketball games this season.

***

Rev. William McCabe of New Philadelphia Emmanuel Lutheran Church apparently couldn't find his seat last night — he kept winding up on the Dover side. McCabe sported his "Banana High" shirt and a Quaker hat and badges.

***

Tornado fans, many waving "Terrible Tornado" towels, tried their luck at catching mini-footballs thrown into the stands. The footballs were inscribed with: "Dover-New Phila 75th football diamond anniversary, Dover Crater Stadium."